Hi Martin,

At micro1 we're currently assessing companies that may qualify to license anonymized operational data for AI model training and evaluation. Based on what we know about your company, there may be a potential fit.

If qualified, micro1 would pay your company to license relevant operational data from internal workflows your team already runs.

If interested, the next step would be a short intro call to tell you more, and help us better understand:

1. What workflows your team operates end to end
2. What data those workflows generate
3. Whether that data can be anonymized and licensed

Qualified partnerships typically range from $50K-2M depending on the scope and value of the data. You can find more detailed information here. Would you be open to a quick call this week to see if there's a fit?

Best wishes,
micro1 team
